Introduction

The TTI TriMetrix® DNA Coaching Report was designed to increase the understanding of an individual's talents. The report provides insight to three distinct areas: behaviors, driving forces and competencies. Understanding strengths and weaknesses in each of the three areas will lead to personal and professional development and a higher level of satisfaction.

The following is an in-depth look at your personal talents in the three main sections:

Behaviors

This section of the report is designed to help you attain a greater knowledge of yourself as well as others. The ability to interact effectively with people may be the difference between success and failure in your work and personal life. Effective interaction starts with an accurate perception of oneself.

Driving Forces

This section of the report provides information on the why of your actions, which with application and coaching, can tremendously impact your valuing of life. Once you know the motivations that drive your actions, you will immediately be able to understand the causes of conflict.

Integrating Behaviors And Driving Forces

This section of the report will help you blend the how and the why of your actions. Once you can understand how your behaviors and driving forces blend together, your performance will be enhanced and you will experience an increase in satisfaction.

Competencies

This section presents 25 key competencies and ranks them from top to bottom, defining your major strengths. The skills at the top highlight well-developed capabilities and reveal where you are naturally most effective in focusing your time.

Introduction Behaviors

Behavioral research suggests that the most effective people are those who understand themselves, both their strengths and weaknesses, so they can develop strategies to meet the demands of their environment.

A person's behavior is a necessary and integral part of who they are. In other words, much of our behavior comes from "nature" (inherent), and much comes from "nurture" (our upbringing). It is the universal language of "how we act," or our observable human behavior.

In this report we are measuring four dimensions of normal behavior. They are:

- How you respond to problems and challenges.
- How you influence others to your point of view.
- How you respond to the pace of the environment.
- How you respond to rules and procedures set by others.

This report analyzes behavioral style; that is, a person's manner of doing things. Is the report 100% true? Yes, no and maybe. We are only measuring behavior. We only report statements from areas of behavior in which tendencies are shown. To improve accuracy, feel free to make notes or edit the report regarding any statement from the report that may or may not apply, but only after checking with friends or colleagues to see if they agree.

*"All people exhibit all four behavioral factors in varying degrees of intensity."
—W.M. Marston*

General Characteristics

Based on Sylvia's responses, the report has selected general statements to provide a broad understanding of her work style. These statements identify the basic natural behavior that she brings to the job. That is, if left on her own, these statements identify HOW SHE WOULD CHOOSE TO DO THE JOB. Use the general characteristics to gain a better understanding of Sylvia's natural behavior.

Sylvia likes public recognition for her achievements. One of her motivating factors is recognition and "strokes." She is most likely to be at her best in situations where important things, such as values, judgments, feelings and emotions are involved. She prides herself on her "intuition." She does not like close supervision. She wants to be seen as her own person, but usually projects it in friendly terms. Sylvia prefers working for a participative manager. She does her best work in this kind of environment. She tends to trust people and may be taken advantage of because of her high trust level. She likes quality social relationships. She often will become friends with her customers or clients. She, as a manager, supervisor or group leader can use her people skills to build group involvement and increase participation from the group. Sylvia has a strong ego and usually projects this ego in friendly terms. She places her focus on people. To her, strangers are just friends she hasn't met!

Sylvia tends to make snap judgments or impulsive decisions. Because of her trust and willing acceptance of people, she may misjudge the abilities of others. She tends to break the rules and then attempts to sell you on the fact it was the proper thing to do. When she has strong feelings about a particular problem, you should expect to hear these feelings, and they will probably be expressed in an emotional manner. Sylvia may be inconsistent in disciplining others. Sometimes she will seek the quick and simple decision. Her aversion to detailed work motivates her desire for simplicity. She likes to be involved in the decision-making process. She likes working for managers who make quick decisions.

Sylvia has the ability to look at the whole problem; for example, thinking about relationships, being concerned about the feelings of others and focusing on the real impact of her decisions and actions. She tends to mask some of her directness in friendly terms and is usually recognized as a friendly and trusting person. She usually uses many gestures when talking. She can be intense and may not always fit the intensity to the situation. Sometimes she can get caught short on the facts and figures needed to support her ideas. She tends to influence people to her way of thinking by using verbiage as compared with others who like to use reports. Some see her as too talkative and emotional. She will optimistically interact with people in an assured, diplomatic and poised manner.

Value to the Organization

This section of the report identifies the specific talents and behavior Sylvia brings to the job. By looking at these statements, one can identify her role in the organization. The organization can then develop a system to capitalize on her particular value and make her an integral part of the team.

- Builds confidence in others.
- Verbalizes her feelings.
- Team player.
- Negotiates conflicts.
- Big thinker.
- Optimistic and enthusiastic.
- Can support or oppose strongly.
- Inner-directed rather than tradition-directed--brings fresh ideas for solving problems.
- Pioneering.

Checklist for Communicating

Most people are aware of and sensitive to the ways with which they prefer to be communicated. Many people find this section to be extremely accurate and important for enhanced interpersonal communication. This page provides other people with a list of things to DO when communicating with Sylvia. Read each statement and identify the 3 or 4 statements which are most important to her. We recommend highlighting the most important "DO's" and provide a listing to those who communicate with Sylvia most frequently.

Ways to Communicate

- Read the body language for approval or disapproval.
- Provide a warm and friendly environment.
- Appeal to the benefits she will receive.
- Provide "yes" or "no" answers--not maybe.
- Deal with details in writing, have her commit to modes of action.
- Expect her to return to fight another day when she has received a "no" answer.
- Offer special, immediate and continuing incentives for her willingness to take risks.
- Provide ideas for implementing action.
- Define the problem in writing.
- Understand her defiant nature.
- Look for her oversights.
- Use enough time to be stimulating, fun-loving, fast-moving.
- Provide solutions--not opinions.

Checklist for Communicating Continued

This section of the report is a list of things NOT to do while communicating with Sylvia. Review each statement with Sylvia and identify those methods of communication that result in frustration or reduced performance. By sharing this information, both parties can negotiate a communication system that is mutually agreeable.

Ways NOT to Communicate

- Let her overpower you with verbiage.
- Give her your opinion unless asked.
- Hesitate when confronted.
- Waste time trying to be impersonal, judgmental or too task-oriented.
- Drive on to facts, figures, alternatives or abstractions.
- "Dream" with her or you'll lose time.
- Leave decisions hanging in the air.
- Legislate or muffle--don't overcontrol the conversation.
- Be curt, cold or tight-lipped.
- Be paternalistic.
- Ramble.
- Talk down to her.
- Be dictatorial.

Communication Tips

This section provides suggestions on methods which will improve Sylvia's communications with others. The tips include a brief description of typical people with whom she may interact. By adapting to the communication style desired by other people, Sylvia will become more effective in her communications with them. She may have to practice some flexibility in varying her communication style with others who may be different from herself. This flexibility and the ability to interpret the needs of others is the mark of a superior communicator.

When communicating with a person who is dependent, neat, conservative, perfectionist, careful and compliant:

- Prepare your "case" in advance.
- Stick to business.
- Be accurate and realistic.

Factors that will create tension or dissatisfaction:

- Being giddy, casual, informal, loud.
- Pushing too hard or being unrealistic with deadlines.
- Being disorganized or messy.

When communicating with a person who is ambitious, forceful, decisive, strong-willed, independent and goal-oriented:

- Be clear, specific, brief and to the point.
- Stick to business.
- Be prepared with support material in a well-organized "package."

Factors that will create tension or dissatisfaction:

- Talking about things that are not relevant to the issue.
- Leaving loopholes or cloudy issues.
- Appearing disorganized.

When communicating with a person who is patient, predictable, reliable, steady, relaxed and modest:

- Begin with a personal comment--break the ice.
- Present your case softly, nonthreateningly.
- Ask "how?" questions to draw their opinions.

Factors that will create tension or dissatisfaction:

- Rushing headlong into business.
- Being domineering or demanding.
- Forcing them to respond quickly to your objectives.

When communicating with a person who is magnetic, enthusiastic, friendly, demonstrative and political:

- Provide a warm and friendly environment.
- Don't deal with a lot of details (put them in writing).
- Ask "feeling" questions to draw their opinions or comments.

Factors that will create tension or dissatisfaction:

- Being curt, cold or tight-lipped.
- Controlling the conversation.
- Driving on facts and figures, alternatives, abstractions.

Perceptions

See Yourself as Others See You

A person's behavior and feelings may be quickly telegraphed to others. This section provides additional information on Sylvia's self-perception and how, under certain conditions, others may perceive her behavior. Understanding this section will empower Sylvia to project the image that will allow her to control the situation.

Self-Perception

Sylvia usually sees herself as being:

- Enthusiastic
- Charming
- Persuasive
- Outgoing
- Inspiring
- Optimistic

Others' Perception - Moderate

Under moderate pressure, tension, stress or fatigue, others may see her as being:

- Self-Promoting
- Overly Optimistic
- Glib
- Unrealistic

Others' Perception - Extreme

Under extreme pressure, stress or fatigue, others may see her as being:

- Overly Confident
- Poor Listener
- Talkative
- Self-Promoter

The Absence of a Behavioral Factor

The absence of a behavioral factor may provide insight into situations or environments that may cause tension or stress. Based on research, we are able to identify situations that should be avoided or minimized in a person's day-to-day environment. By understanding the contribution of a low behavioral style, we are able to better articulate a person's talents and create environments where people can be more effective.

Situations and circumstances to avoid or aspects needed within the environment in order to minimize behavioral stress.

- Avoid situations where the lack of fear is the driving force versus the return for the organization.
- Avoid working environments where risk taking is not rewarded or encouraged.
- Avoid situations where critical analysis is required, and move toward an out-of-the-box brainstorming environment.

Understanding that the need to adapt is unavoidable at times, below are tips for adapting to those with C above the energy line and/or tips for seeking environments that will be conducive to the low C.

- Stress is demonstrated through body language; be sure to send the same message verbally and physically.
- Breaking rules that others must follow, will be seen as reckless and haphazard.
- Understand the need for detail in delegation practices, as this may cause unnecessary stress for others, and the desired result will be more difficult to achieve.

Unobtrusive	Incisive	Impulsive	Unbending

Natural and Adapted Style

Sylvia's natural style of dealing with problems, people, pace of events and procedures may not always fit what the environment needs. This section will provide valuable information related to stress and the pressure to adapt to the environment.

Problems - Challenges

Natural

Sylvia is ambitious in her approach to problem solving, displaying a strong will and a need to win against all obstacles. Sylvia has a tendency to make decisions with little or no hesitation.

Adapted

Sylvia sees no need to change her approach to solving problems or dealing with challenges in her present environment.

People - Contacts

Natural

Sylvia is enthusiastic about her ability to influence others. She prefers an environment in which she has the opportunity to deal with different types of individuals. Sylvia is trusting and also wants to be trusted.

Adapted

Sylvia feels the environment calls for her to be sociable and optimistic. She will trust others and wants a positive environment in which to relate.

Natural and Adapted Style Continued

Pace - Consistency

Natural

Sylvia is variety-oriented and demonstrates a need to get from one activity to another as quickly as possible. She usually demonstrates a pronounced sense of urgency. She is eager to initiate change if for nothing else than for change's sake.

Adapted

Sylvia feels the need for mobility and the absence of routine. She feels comfortable juggling several projects at one time and can move from one project to another fairly easily.

Procedures - Constraints

Natural

Sylvia is independent by nature and feels comfortable in situations where the constraints are few and far between. She will follow rules as long as she feels that the rules are hers. She has a tendency to rebel from rules set by others and wants input into any constraints.

Adapted

Sylvia shows little discomfort when comparing her basic (natural) style to her response to the environment (adapted) style. The difference is not significant and Sylvia sees little or no need to change her response to the environment.

Adapted Style

Natural Style

Adapted Style

Sylvia sees her present work environment requiring her to exhibit the behavior listed on this page. If the following statements DO NOT sound job related, explore the reasons why she is adapting this behavior.

- A good support team to handle paperwork.
- Being creative and unconventional in making a point.
- Willing to take risks when others may be hesitant.
- Acting without precedent, and able to respond to change in daily work.
- Using a direct, forthright and honest approach in her communications.
- A competitive environment, combined with a high degree of people skills.
- Dedicated to "going it alone" when necessary.
- Quickly responding to crisis and change, with a strong desire for immediate results.
- Firm commitment to accomplishments.
- Skillful use of vocabulary for persuasive situations.
- Flaunting independence.
- Responding well to challenges: "You say I can't do it? Just watch me!"
- Using a creative approach in decision making.

Time Wasters

This section of your report is designed to identify time wasters that may impact your overall time use effectiveness. Possible causes and solutions will serve as a basis for creating an effective plan for maximizing your use of TIME and increasing your PERFORMANCE.

Cluttered Desk

A cluttered desk is one that is overloaded by papers, supplies and equipment to the point of impacting the ability to be productive.

Possible Causes:

- See organizing and filing activities as a waste of time
- Want everything at fingertips
- Do not conceptualize a system for grouping information and materials
- Have not established a timeline for tasks or projects

Possible Solutions:

- Handle each piece of mail only once, i.e. pitch it, file it or delegate it
- Set up (or have someone else set up) an information storage and retrieval system
- Get off mailing lists that are of no interest to you
- Remind yourself that the time it takes to open "junk" mail robs you of time for more important tasks
- Establish a time limit for certain projects and only have current project material on your desk

Procrastination

Procrastination is the process of delaying action. It is also the inability to begin action.

Possible Causes:

- Priorities have not been set
- Do not see projects or tasks clearly
- Overwhelmed with commitments
- Hope that time will solve or eliminate the problem
- Fear of failure

Adapted Style

Natural Style

Time Wasters Continued

Possible Solutions:

- Set goals and establish priorities
- Break large projects into small steps and do one at a time
- Agree to follow established priorities
- Consider consequences if it doesn't get done
- Remind yourself that you will avoid the stress of putting something off until the last minute

Excessive Socializing

Excessive socializing is defined as those interactions that go beyond the usual required time for discussing a issue or task. It can also be interacting too frequently with those who do not support or contribute to the accomplishment of daily priorities.

Possible Causes:

- Enjoy people
- Want to be liked
- Are creatively motivated when with others
- Allow and even encourage visitors and telephone calls
- Haven't prioritized daily requirements
- Confuse deadlines

Possible Solutions:

- Keep daily priorities in view to keep you on task
- Set time guidelines for informal conversations, lunches and meetings
- Monitor your open door policy
- Screen and put a time limit on telephone calls
- Be willing to tell visitors and callers that you cannot be interrupted at this time

Adapted Style Natural Style

Open Door Policy

An open door policy in this context refers to giving unlimited and unmonitored access to anyone who wishes to see you.

Possible Causes:

- Want to be seen as supportive and available
- Want the social interaction of people dropping by
- Have a difficult time saying "no"
- Use people interruptions as a way of procrastinating or justifying missed deadlines

Possible Solutions:

- Set aside time to "close your door" and work on projects
- Set aside time to interact with co-workers
- Learn to prioritize activities and say "no" to low priorities
- Place your desk so that it is not always in "view" of those who pass by
- Avoid eye contact with people who walk by your desk or office

Desire To Be Involved With Too Many People

The desire to be involved with too many people is involvement that extends beyond business interactions to the point of interfering with work. Beyond being friendly, it is excessive socializing.

Possible Causes:

- Have many interests
- Want to be seen as one of the gang
- Need praise and approval from others

Possible Solutions:

- Recognize your time constraints
- Be selective in getting involved in activities
- Monitor energy level
- Keep personal and job related priorities in view

Adapted Style Natural Style

Long Lunches

Long lunches are those that extend beyond the normal time for eating. They could be kept within a specific time frame but are not.

Possible Causes:

- Get involved in the excitement of conversation and forget about time
- See long lunches as a networking opportunity
- Like doing business in a social, non-threatening environment
- Use long lunches as a way to avoid unpleasant tasks, people or the work environment

Possible Solutions:

- Set a specific time for lunch and STICK TO IT
- Have meetings in the office
- Set meetings right after lunch
- Have working lunches

Areas for Improvement

In this area is a listing of possible limitations without regard to a specific job. Review with Sylvia and cross out those limitations that do not apply. Highlight 1 to 3 limitations that are hindering her performance and develop an action plan to eliminate or reduce this hindrance.

Sylvia has a tendency to:

- Be a situational listener if not given an opportunity to tell her ideas.
- Be overly enthusiastic about her own shortcomings (weaknesses) and the shortcomings of others.
- Trust people indiscriminately if positively reinforced by those people.
- Make decisions based on surface analysis.
- Be unrealistic in appraising people--especially if the person is a "friend."
- Overuse praise in motivating others.
- Be inattentive to detail unless that detail is important to her or if detail work is of a short duration.

The Success Insights® Wheel

The Success Insights® Wheel is a powerful tool popularized in Europe. In addition to the text you have received about your behavioral style, the Wheel adds a visual representation that allows you to:

- View your natural behavioral style (circle).
- View your adapted behavioral style (star).
- Note the degree you are adapting your behavior.
- If you filled out the Work Environment Analysis, view the relationship of your behavior to your job.

Notice on the next page that your Natural style (circle) and your Adapted style (star) are plotted on the Wheel. If they are plotted in different boxes, then you are adapting your behavior. The further the two plotting points are from each other, the more you are adapting your behavior.

If you are part of a group or team who also took the behavioral assessment, it would be advantageous to get together, using each person's Wheel, and make a master Wheel that contains each person's Natural and Adapted style. This allows you to quickly see where conflict can occur. You will also be able to identify where communication, understanding and appreciation can be increased.

Understanding Your Driving Forces

Eduard Spranger first defined six primary types or categories to define human motivation and drive. These six types are Theoretical, Utilitarian, Aesthetic, Social, Individualistic and Traditional.

With TTISI's additional insights into Spranger's original work, the 12 Driving Forces® came to life. The 12 Driving Forces® are established by looking at each motivator on a continuum and describing both ends. All of the twelve descriptors are based on six keywords, one for each continuum. The six keywords are Knowledge, Utility, Surroundings, Others, Power and Methodologies.

You will learn how to explain, clarify and amplify some of the driving forces in your life. This report will empower you to build on your unique strengths, which you bring to work and life. You will learn how your passions from 12 Driving Forces® frame your perspectives and provide the most accurate understanding of you as a unique person.

Please pay careful attention to your top four driving forces, as they highlight what most powerfully moves you to action. As you examine the next tier of four driving forces, you'll recognize they may have strong pull for you, but only in certain situations. Finally, when reviewing the bottom four driving forces, you will identify your varying levels of indifference or total avoidance.

Once you have reviewed this report you will have a better grasp of one of the key areas in the Science of Self™ and will:

- Identify and understand your unique Driving Forces
- Understand and appreciate the Driving Forces of others
- Establish methods to recognize and understand how your Driving Forces interact with others to improve communication

General Characteristics

Based on your responses, the report has generated statements to provide a broad understanding of WHY YOU DO WHAT YOU DO. These statements identify the motivation that you bring to the job. However, you could have a potential Me-Me conflict when two driving forces seem to conflict with each other. Use the general characteristics to gain a better understanding of your driving forces.

Sylvia has the ability to instinctively notice and respond to people in need. She has the desire to be empathetic toward those in need. She believes people should have the opportunity to be the best they can be. She will accomplish tasks for the sake of accomplishment. Sylvia values people for who they are versus what they can provide. She will value the process and people involved more than the end result. She will thrive in a role where she can experience self-realization and gratification. Looking and feeling good enhances her daily productivity. Sylvia will view and use knowledge as a needed resource or a means to an end. She will research a subject if it's something Sylvia is passionate about. She will evaluate each situation and determine how much collaboration is needed. She may be able to pick and choose the traditions to which she will adopt.

If she thinks it will harm the relationship, Sylvia will avoid confrontation. She looks for ways to help people have positive experiences. Being rewarded for her investment of time, talent or resources is not her driving force. She views money as a necessary means of surviving not as a sense of accomplishment. Sylvia will flourish in an environment where she has the opportunity to create harmony and balance in her surroundings and relationships. She is able to see the overall situation and strive for harmony. She is comfortable starting a project before gathering all the necessary information. She is comfortable in situations when she can rely on past experiences. Sylvia may seek situations that allow her the freedom to partner with others. She may strive to maintain collaboration in group settings. She may seek new ways to accomplish routine tasks. She may not focus on a specific approach and will keep momentum moving forward.

General Characteristics

At times Sylvia sees the importance of following a system and how it applies to a specific situation. She tends to support those who are leading with a vision. She may prefer a summary rather than the full-length version. She feels a high level of satisfaction when she is able to create rapport and tranquility with others. Sylvia focuses on the greater good versus her return on investment. She is able to let go of possessions without looking at future needs or uses. She will strive to eliminate conflict in the workplace. She will look for faults in a process before blaming an individual.

Primary Driving Forces Cluster

Your top driving forces create a cluster of drivers that move you to action. If you focus on the cluster rather than a single driver you can create combinations of factors that are very specific to you. The closer the scores are to each other the more you can pull from each driver. Think about the driver that you can relate to most and then see how your other primary drivers can support or complement to create your unique driving force.

1. Altruistic - People who are driven to assist others for the satisfaction of being helpful or supportive.

85

2. Selfless - People who are driven by completing tasks for the sake of completion, with little expectation of personal return.

85

3. Harmonious - People who are driven by the experience, subjective viewpoints and balance in their surroundings.

71

4. Instinctive - People who are driven by utilizing past experiences, intuition and seeking specific knowledge when necessary.

51

Situational Driving Forces Cluster

Your middle driving forces create a cluster of drivers that come in to play on a situational basis. While not as significant as your primary drivers, they can influence your actions in certain scenarios.

5. Collaborative - People who are driven by being in a supporting role and contributing with little need for individual recognition.

49

6. Receptive - People who are driven by new ideas, methods and opportunities that fall outside a defined system for living.

49

7. Commanding - People who are driven by status, recognition and control over personal freedom.

35

8. Structured - People who are driven by traditional approaches, proven methods and a defined system for living.

31

Indifferent Driving Forces Cluster

You may feel indifferent toward some or all of the drivers in this cluster. However, the remaining factors may cause an adverse reaction when interacting with people who have one or more of these as a primary driving force.

9. Intellectual - People who are driven by opportunities to learn, acquire knowledge and the discovery of truth.

24

10. Objective - People who are driven by the functionality and objectivity of their surroundings.

11

11. Resourceful - People who are driven by practical results, maximizing both efficiency and returns for their investments of time, talent, energy and resources.

6

12. Intentional - People who are driven to assist others for a specific purpose, not just for the sake of being helpful or supportive.

6

Areas for Awareness

For years you have heard statements like, "Different strokes for different folks," "to each his own," and "people do things for their own reasons, not yours." When you are surrounded by people who share similar driving forces, you will fit in with the group and be energized. However, when surrounded by people whose driving forces are significantly different from yours, you may be perceived as out of the mainstream. These differences can induce stress or conflict.

This section reveals areas where your driving forces may be outside the mainstream and could lead to conflict. The further above the mean and outside the mainstream you are, the more people will notice your passion about that driving force. The further below the mean and outside the mainstream you are, the more people will notice your avoidance or indifference regarding that driving force. The shaded area for each driving force represents 68 percent of the population or scores that fall within one standard deviation above or below the national mean.

Norms & Comparisons Table - Norm 2017

■ - 1st Standard Deviation - * 68% of the population falls within the shaded area. ■ - national mean ★ - your score

Introduction Integrating Behaviors and Driving Forces Section

The ultimate power behind increasing job satisfaction and performance comes from the blending of your behaviors and driving forces. Each individually is powerful in order to modify your actions, but the synergy of blending the two moves you to a whole new level.

In this section you will find:

- Potential Behavioral and Motivational Strengths
- Potential Behavioral and Motivational Conflict
- Ideal Environment
- Keys to Motivating
- Keys to Managing

Potential Behavioral and Motivational Strengths

This section describes the potential areas of strengths between Sylvia's behavioral style and top four driving forces. Identify two to three potential strengths that need to be maximized and rewarded in order to enhance on-the-job satisfaction.

- Always willing to offer her time and perspective.
- Good at promoting causes that improve society.
- Wants to be seen as a leader in humanitarian issues.
- Tends to be accommodating while completing tasks.
- Looks for the positive in people, processes and resources.
- Promotes accomplishments for the greater good of the organization.
- Expresses and strives for a balanced team.
- Motivates others to express themselves.
- Brings enthusiasm to the creative process.
- Thinks outside of the box when gathering specific information.
- Will bring high energy and intuition to the researching process.
- Volunteers relevant knowledge on many subjects.

Potential Behavioral and Motivational Conflict

This section describes the potential areas of conflict between Sylvia's behavioral style and top four driving forces. Identify two to three potential conflicts that need to be minimized in order to enhance on-the-job performance.

- High trust and a desire to help could lead to being taken advantage of.
- Would rather take responsibility for others' actions than have a difficult conversation with a direct report.
- When helping others, may talk too much about herself.

Ideal Environment

People are more engaged and productive when their work environment matches the statements described in this section. This section identifies the ideal work environment based on Sylvia's behavioral style and top four driving forces. Use this section to identify specific duties and responsibilities that Sylvia enjoys.

- Ability to achieve results through the interaction with and helping of others.
- Groups and committees are present in order to assist charities and social causes.
- A forum to advocate for the greater good as it relates to moving the organization forward.
- Rewards determined by contributions to group efforts.
- A manager that focuses on people and brings excitement into the business.
- The experience is seen as a part of the desired accomplishment.
- The need to be liked and to feel a part of a harmonious team.
- Ability to develop new and out-of-the box ideas with others.
- A fun and creative working environment.
- A forum to collect information when needed.
- Flexibility to attend tradeshow and seminars in order to gain specific information to share with others.
- A leadership team that is optimistic about learning new concepts as well as relying on intuition.

Keys to Motivating

All people are different and motivated in various ways. This section of the report was produced by analyzing Sylvia's driving forces. Review each statement produced in this section with Sylvia and highlight those that are present "wants."

Sylvia wants:

- The flexibility to be creative in ways that help others.
- To be a part of the team that contributes to causes and helping others.
- To be seen as an internal resource for people to express problems and challenges.
- The opportunity to express accomplishments of the company to others.
- The opportunity to discuss team and organizational accomplishments.
- The chance to include others as part of the agenda.
- To demonstrate the ways she has worked on the beautification of surroundings, either materialistically or environmentally.
- Positive and open interactions between co-workers and management.
- The experience of the people and the surroundings to be happy and balanced.
- To be able to seek out critical information that is valuable to share with others.
- The opportunity to share relevant knowledge with others.
- To be seen as an expert in a variety of areas and opportunities to share in the discussions.

Keys to Managing

This section discusses the needs which must be met in order for Sylvia to perform at an optimum level. Some needs can be met by herself, while management must provide for others. It is difficult for a person to enter a motivational environment when that person's basic management needs have not been fulfilled. Review the list with Sylvia and identify 3 or 4 statements that are most important to her. This allows Sylvia to participate in forming her own personal management plan.

Sylvia needs:

- Assistance in managing time to meet own goals while helping other people.
- To help balance socialization and tangible assistance for others.
- A manager that promotes her ability to positively influence others.
- To listen for the answer she wants in order to benefit the organization.
- Assistance in establishing realistic expectations while increasing involvement of others.
- Help balancing the desire for accomplishment and the need for people interactions.
- Assistance in setting realistic and balanced expectations with tangible outcomes that allow for creativity and expression.
- To find opportunities for self-expression.
- To balance socializing and work load to lower time management issues.
- To seek out ways to organize thoughts in order to effectively convey the relevant information.
- To understand that others may get more excited about learning new information.
- To gather relevant information in an environment filled with opportunities to share.

Introduction Competencies

Your success in any job depends on the value of your contribution to the organization. Managers, mentors and professional coaches can encourage, advise and guide you as you grow professionally. However, the ultimate responsibility for your career development is yours and yours alone.

This report is designed to assist you in managing and developing your career. For many jobs, personal skills are as important as technical skills in producing superior performance. Personal skills are often transferable to different jobs, whereas technical skills are usually more specific.

Based on your responses to the DNA 25 questionnaire, this report indicates your development of 25 personal skills. These 25 personal skills contribute to superior performance in many jobs. Your development of these personal skills are categorized into four levels:

- 1) Well Developed
- 2) Developed
- 3) Moderately Developed
- 4) Needs Development

While personal skills are certainly important for career development, it is not necessary to fully develop every one. In fact, development of a personal skill may not benefit your career if it isn't required in your current job. In order to optimize your career potential, it is best to focus your development efforts on the personal skills that are required in your current job, or the job you want.

Be sure to read the entire report with an open mind. Everyone has areas where they can improve. Before deciding to work on developing personal skills you have not yet fully developed, you may want to discuss the report with a trusted peer, mentor or professional coach. You may even wish to share the report with your manager. In most cases, management takes a very positive view of individuals who wish to develop their skills.

Development Indicator

This section of your report shows your development level of 25 personal skills based on your responses to the questionnaire.
